Gentlemen:-

In your sale next Monday, I find three (3) pieces I would like, viz., Numbers 541,- 542 and 543 Should these pieces sell for a reasonable price, bid them in for me. I do not name any figure, leaving the matter to your judgement. However, I do not wish to pay any very extravagant price for them. If my memory is correct, I saw Number 542 from you some time ago. I think you then had it marked $10.00 That is all I think the piece is worth, in any event. The others are not as valuable.

Yours Respectfully,

Gentlemen:-

Both your letters duly received. When I sent check for the proof sets that closed the transaction for me, and the letter I wrote simply expressed my thoughts. Had your first letter been as explicit as your second you probably would not have heard anything from me, except to receive the remittance. I now fully understand the matter and in the future will avoid waiting for my proof sets. Have for a number of years ordered them through Mr. Mills, and understood from him that waiting, procurred better sets than the earlier ones.

I herewith return check and stamped envelope.
